Presidents' Message

From the Desks of Linda Robinson and Doug Storm

On behalf of the entire REAO and AREOC Board of Directors—WELCOME BACK from all your summer activities, retirees! We hope your time was spent relaxing and enjoying those long summer days with family, friends and loved ones. Labor Day celebrations are just around the corner as is entrance into the new fall season. While the political landscape is taking over media headlines and airwaves these days, please take time to enjoy the changing scenery that this time of year offers.

Update The past few months have provided many opportunities and challenges for your Board of Directors and REAO volunteers. As you read in the May/June issue of The Informer, REAO requested members who were interested in running for the Retired Member seat on the OCERS Board of Retirement to contact REAO by June 15th to schedule an interview and receive endorsement consideration. The interview process was completed in mid-July. It is the Board's unanimous decision to endorse Mr. Frank Eley as REAO's candidate for the retirement board. Frank's credentials and experience are extraordinary. He is exceptionally qualified to fill this important position, having served on the OCERS Board for over 17 years as an OCERS Trustee—Elected General Member. We are asking all our members to VOTE FOR FRANK ELEY as the next Retired Member on the OCERS' Board of Retirement. Ballots will be mailed to OCERS members in October and a mail-in ballot count will take place on December 6, 2016.

2017 Health Insurance Rates
On July 26 the Board of Supervisors adopted 2017 Retiree Medical Rates. REAO was not included in the rate setting process. Rates vary by plan—some with considerable increases—others with minimal change. Rates are posted on the REAO website at www.reaoc.org. It is highly recommended that all retirees enrolled in County health plans thoroughly review all health

Progressive Drawing $400.00

Rosalie Ferencik of Aliso Viejo would have won $300 at the May luncheon if she was present at the luncheon. Remember – you must be present at the time of the drawing to win! See you on Wednesday, September 28, 2016 at Mile Square Park.

September 21 Speaker Dr. Bill Hoffman

Our Fall speaker, Bill Hoffman, MA, Ph.D., represents Hoffs Tours. His urban tours differ from others, as presented from his perspective: a teacher, urban planner and tour guide. Dr. Hoffman enjoys assisting tourists and locals to see patterns and aspects of their cities that they may not have previously noticed.

Dr. Hoffman, a.k.a. Hoffs, began leading architectural walking tours after earning his Master's Degree from UCLA in 1981. After completing his Social Ecology Ph.D. from UCI, he realized that American cities were undergoing an exciting rebirth. Ten years later he formed his own tour company, Hoffs Tours, bill@hoffstours.com.

plan options, taking into consideration individual/family medical needs and financial factors. REAOC is working with Employee Benefits to improve timely and transparent explanations for both increases and decreases in plan options. Open Enrollment begins on November 4 and continues through November 23. The County will mail Retiree Medical Plan Packages in mid-to-late October. Your Board STRONGLY recommends attending one of the County-sponsored seminars this fall to fully understand plan options and ask questions to help you determine/clarify which plan best suits your needs. This will be the third consecutive year REAOC has co-sponsored one of these seminars. Mile Square Golf Park has been contracted for use of the Clubhouse Banquet facility located at 10401 Warner Avenue in Fountain Valley; this to provide the largest venue possible. The seminar has been scheduled for Wednesday, November 16. PLEASE SAVE THE DATE ON YOUR CALENDAR. Additional information will be provided as the date gets closer via the REAOC website and through our e-mail distribution list. As requested last year, if you are able to attend the November 16 seminar, please call the REAOC office at 714-840-3995 or e-mail us at reaoc@reaoc.org to let us know if you plan to attend. This will be very helpful in planning the event. We look forward to seeing you there.

Additional Activities During the summer months, your Board and REAOC volunteers addressed important retiree issues through Board Watch activities, attendance at OCERS meetings, participation in national and statewide conferences, providing presentations at pre-retirement seminars and attending meetings with County staff. On Tuesday, September 13 REAOC Board members will participate in OCEA's Annual Health Fair to invite prospective retirees to join the REAOC organization upon retirement or as Associate Members while still employed with the County.

In closing, we sincerely thank each of you for your continued support, participation and membership in REAOC. Take care and be well.

CRCEA Conference Spring 2016

Special Roundtable Session

Retirement Systems Interaction with Retiree Associations

by Ilene Barcenas

The Spring CRCEA Conference was held this year in Kern County from April 11 to 13. Your REAOC Co-Presidents, Linda Robinson and Doug Storm and I attended.

A special roundtable session addressed issues about interaction between retiree associations and their retirement systems. Many shared they have an excellent relationship with their retirement systems while others did not. Luckily Orange County has an excellent relationship with ours. A few of the presentations that were of particular interest to retirees are summarized below.

PRESENTATION: ADVANCE HEALTH CARE DIRECTIVES - SPEAKER: ROBIN BUNYAN, KAISER PERMANENTE, LICENSED CLINICAL SOCIAL WORKER
Advance Care Planning includes using a Health Care Agent, knowing that the Agent will honor your values and can make difficult decisions in stressful situations. The speaker stressed how important it is to choose someone who is trustworthy and rational, who will be available and can follow the wishes of the patient.

The process of communication between the patient and Health Care Agent must involve understanding and reflection. Developing a Health Care Directive allows us to think about what we want and are willing to do. We may say "if I am a vegetable, pull the plug." This may mean that if you do not have good quality of life, the Agent needs to be ready to communicate to medical staff not to implement or continue life-saving or life-prolonging measures. When we are no longer able to communicate, are in pain, are connected to machines and/or become a burden to our families, the Agent knows your wish to continue treatment or disconnect the machines.

Ms. Bunyan stressed that everyone should have a Health Care Directive so that our wishes are known prior to a life-threatening event or crisis and recommended www.NHHD.org, a website to consult.

PRESENTATION: ELDER ABUSE AND SCAMS - SPEAKER: LISA GREEN, KERN COUNTY DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Ms. Green stated that elder abuse may be physical or mental abuse, embezzlement, fraud, identity theft, etc. She added that the multitude of scams directed towards elders seek to fraudulently obtain money. Eleven percent of all elder abuse cases are unreported and 90% involve financial abuse. Seniors lose $36 billion a year in the U.S.

Examples of abuse scams include computer, health care, relatives, provision of out-of-date medicine, identity theft, lottery, home improvement and ATMs. The bottom line is that if something seems too good to be true, it probably is.

PRESENTATION: PENSION INITIATIVES SPEAKER: GEORGE LINN, PRESIDENT, RPEA
Pension Initiatives designed to reduce our public pensions can come in all forms. Reed and DeMaio began with local district initiatives. We must act on these initiatives early and communicate the facts to those who need them. Pension initiatives are not going away. Each of us need to get the message out to friends, family and officials that public pension funds are solid.

The CalPERS buck shown below provides a clear picture of where the money originates. It does not come from taxes or the "public trough." The picture below is a good visual display for those who do not understand our pension system.

Is the Pension Environment Evolving To Cooperation?

By Lou Scarpino

You're right. We could not possibly be referring to the 2016 presidential race for oh so many reasons. What we are referencing is something that evokes similar disbelief and amazement. I'm talking about the 28th Annual Southern California Public Retirement March 24th Seminar in which REAOC participates each year in support of our mission. And, for those readers of The Informer who have been following the reports from this annual event, the pension environment appears to show some signs of evolution from contention to a point where cooperation may be on the horizon. So what does this mean?

Before addressing the question, a quick overview is in order. This seminar provided an annual update for all stakeholders involved with California's State and local retirement systems, including CalPERS, CalSTRS and 1937 Act systems, under which our own Orange County Employee Retirement System operates. The agenda this year followed the customary format of a keynote address provided by California State Controller Betty Yee. CalPERS' CFO Cheryl Eason and Senior Pension Actuary Todd Tauzer were next, followed by the legislative update provided by pension committee consultants Pam Schneider for the Senate and Karen Green for the Assembly. Employer and Labor perspectives were next. The day ended with an actuarial technical session provided by Actuary John Bartel.

With the dramatic economic downturn in 2008 and slow recovery and reengineering of the economy, pensions and stakeholders have had to operate in an extremely volatile environment that has challenged each sector's core and forced reexamination by each. Lawsuits, pension opponent initiatives, pension opponent dark money generously spent, private sector workers without retirement savings, state and local deficits, city bankruptcies using pensions as scapegoats, falling returns from financial and real estate markets' volatility, enhanced pensions, longer life spans, and fewer active employees to retirees ratio, all combined to force this reexamination. Missing from all this was, to a significant extent, the all-important cooperative element needed for smooth functionality.

State Controller Betty Yee, a CalPERS Board member, set the tone by recapping history and relevant statistics. She discussed current bright spots in the pension world that indicate to this writer that we are now beginning to see the results of these sectors' reexaminations. This, coupled with the improved economy, new court decisions now in place, including those stemming from our REAOC health care case, pension reform legislation now in place, and little or no raises—allowing employer budgets to catch up, all contributed to an evolution that has set the stage for some cooperation among sectors.

Forward thinking includes reexamining investment practices and reducing the amount of investment risk that systems have taken on in response to the recession. In addition, proposals such as using pension fund monies as a major source for the crumbling infrastructure problem by investing in revenue producing public works projects, is an idea under active consideration.

Against this backdrop, pension opponents have pulled no less than three onerous pension initiatives originally intended for the 2016 election, leaving mostly presidential politics to occupy the political agenda. But the threat posed by opponents, who many believe have a goal of no less than total elimination of defined benefit pensions, plays prominently into the forward-thinking of all speakers who believe anti-pension initiatives in California will be ongoing every two years for the foreseeable future. In addition, the issue will increasingly have to be fought at the federal level and may include some of the California initiative players.

According to presenters, the good news is that examination of public sentiment indicates that the public really does want a fair shake for public employees. The bad news is that opponents to public pensions remain very active, and learn from each other's efforts at the State and local levels. Speakers noted that polarizing arguments are magnified at the national level. Also, case law has undermined pensions and other pension benefits of active employees, and to a lesser extent, current retirees. While initial attacks do not seem to focus on existing retirees, increased damaging case law cannot be ruled out. As a result, diligence to defend our existing public pension plans, acknowledging and implementing actions to fix problems, and reinstating defined benefit pensions in the private sector, all are seen as the best defense.

Who Do You Call? OCERS, REAOC or Retiree Medical?

By Robert Kinsler

When it comes to understanding the various benefits you receive, or are eligible to receive, it can be confusing. Here is a quick overview of who to contact when you have questions about your benefits:

The Orange County Employees Retirement System (OCERS) provides monthly pension with cost-of-living adjustments (COLA) benefits and death and disability benefits. When you have questions about your monthly benefit payment, including how to adjust your tax withholding and changes to your direct deposit account, visit ocers.org or call OCERS at 714-558-6200.

If you are eligible for and participate in the County of Orange Employee Benefits retiree health care program, contact the Benefits Center at 1-866-325-2345. This is a toll-free number, and the Benefits Center can also assist you during the Open Enrollment period each Fall.

Finally, REAOC provides a range of "Supplemental Insurance Benefits" for purchase, including but not limited to: hearing, dental and vision insurance. REAOC members are encouraged to review the details on these benefit plans before making your personal selections. For more information, visit REAOC's Web site at www.reaoc.org and click on the "Insurance" link at the top of the home page.

REAO's 2015 Audit Results

By Bill Castro

Your REAO Board of Directors is pleased to report that for 2015, the accountancy corporation of Daniel J. Leonard III, CPA, has audited REAO's books and for the fifth year in a row, has opined that our financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of REAO, the results of its operations and its cash flow.

REAO chooses to prepare the financial statements on the cash basis of accounting and not the accrual basis, therefore, the opinion is clean except for the fact that the cash basis of accounting is used, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting rather than generally accepted accounting principles. Additionally, no reportable significant internal control deficiencies were noted.
